

Dear Readers:

The Letter 'G' can make two sounds. The hard 'G' makes a sound in words like: Gary, grow, great, get.

The soft 'G' sounds like the Letter 'J'. It is in words like: George (2 times), giraffe, and in the middle of the word, gerbil.

Note: Some letters are 'outlaws'. They don't follow the rules. The Letter 'g' in the word, laughed, makes the sound of an 'f'. And, the 'g' in gnaw (to chew on) doesn't even make a sound!

The Giraffe and the Gerbil

Once there was a gentle giraffe named George.

George lived on the grasslands of Africa.

George was gigantic. He was 18 feet tall!

He had a long graceful neck and great long legs. His golden skin had orange spots.

George liked to gnaw on the green leaves of the thorny Acacia tree.

One day George was galloping (as Giraffes do) across the savanna grasslands. He stopped at a water hole to drink. George stretched his front legs wide to get his long neck down to the water. He stretched his long tongue to get a drink.

Suddenly, he heard a tiny, little voice, crying, "Help! Help!"

He looked around, for there is danger on the grasslands of Africa. Alligators could be in the water.

Giraffes have to be on guard when they drink.

“Would you please get your big hoof off of my tail?” the little voice groaned.

George raised his right hoof. And there was a little gerbil. The gerbil was so small, George had to giggle.

“Funny for you, but not funny for me!” the tiny gerbil said, stomping his little feet on the ground. “But I am grateful to you for letting me go”, he said. “What can I do for you?”

George giggled again.

“What can a little mouse do for a gigantic giraffe?” he laughed.

“I’m not a mouse! My name is Gary Gerbil!”

Gary gazed up at George and said, “I can climb trees and get the best leaves for you”.

‘I can stand guard and look out for danger while you drink’, Gary promised.

“We could play ‘Hide-and Seek””, Gary suggested.

George laughed at that. “I’m so gig, I could never find a place to hide from a gerbil”.

But George was a very gentle giraffe. He thought it would be a great idea to have a gerbil for a friend. He did not care if Gary was so small. Gary did not care if George was so tall.

So George, the tall Giraffe and Gary, the small Gerbil were glad to be ‘forever friends’! And when George tried to hide behind the Acacia tree, Gary pretended that he could not see him at all!

THE END

~~~~~

Did You Know?

- Giraffes are 14 to 19 feet tall
- Their legs are 6 feet long
- The tail is 8 feet long
- They can weigh 2,400 to 3,000 pounds
- They can run 35 miles per hour
- The heart is 2 feet long and weighs 25 pounds
- Males are ‘bulls’; females are ‘cows’; and babies are ‘calves’
- They have two horns called ‘ossicones’
- Babies are 6’ tall when born and weigh 150 pounds
- Babies can stand on their legs within one hour of birth
- They sleep only 5-30 minutes in a 24-hour day
- They spend most of their life standing up (including sleeping)
- No two giraffes have the same pattern of spots

True False Quiz

The answers are in the Story and Did You Know

Circle the right answer.

1.        T        F        George, the Giraffe, was gentle.
2.        T        F        George was 60 feet tall.
3.        T        F        George lived in Africa.
4.        T        F        Alligators will attack Giraffes.
5.        T        F        George met a gerbil.
6.        T        F        The gerbil was bigger than George.
7.        T        F        The tail of a giraffe is 8 feet long.
8.        T        F        The two horns of the giraffe are called 'ossicones'.
9.        T        F        Giraffes sleep a lot.
10.       T        F        Giraffes all have the same spot patterns on their bodies.

Draw the Gerbil

Giraffe

---

